

Take a look at West Lindsey in 3D!

A diverse, different and dynamic West Lindsey goes on show in Gainsborough next week. West Lindsey in 3D will celebrate all that's good about life in our district by bringing people together to learn about what's on offer for everyone.

The free event has been organised by the district council, housing providers Acis and Age Concern, and will be held at the United Reformed Church on Church Street between 10am and 5pm on 15 April.

Event co-ordinator and Council Corporate Development Officer, Julie Taylor, said, "It will be a great day when people will have the chance to broaden their horizons by having fun and enjoying different experiences. It will be a wonderful opportunity to find out about the many groups and organisations that exist in our district."

Amongst the activities available will be New Age Kurling and Nintendo Wii sessions, theatre performances by learning disability group Act Now, drum workshops by SoundLincs and tasting sessions from local eateries that will give people the chance to sample foods they may not have tried before.

Age Concern Chief Officer Philippa Haresign said, "The event will also provide the opportunity to get information and advice on a whole range of subjects and this could be particularly useful for older people."

Jill Bullock, Performance Manager for Acis, said, "Acis is really pleased to support this event as West Lindsey has lots to offer but sometimes groups and organisations can be difficult to find. This event puts an end to that problem as lots of information will be available. I would urge everyone to come down and take a look. It won't cost a penny and we will be happy to give all our visitors a free cuppa to thank them for taking the time to come and visit."

- 10am - 11am: Drum workshop by SoundLincs
- 11.30am - 11.45am: Medieval Mix-Up by Act Now
